Remember the sloths at the DMV in Zootopia? Yeah they weren't exaggerating It's as slow as that, I kid you not.. This also means people don't care that you are a learner You might as well forget about the red L sign or the fact that the car may have a sign saying DRIVER'S SCHOOL painted on the side.. For us Sri Lankan teenagers it is our first and only sign of independence as we don't move out of our parents' house till marriage (maybe not even then) or start working, but who's complaining? (Probably our parents!) Therefore this is a huge milestone for us.. If you do take the test in English be warned that there are grammatical errors making it harder to understand the question so be careful.. It is highly recommended that you study the prior to taking the examination to better prepare for all questions that will be asked during the test.. In addition it's good to be equipped with phrases to shout at wreckless drivers (oh please, you're going to shout at them even if they're good drivers) because well they should learn a lesson and also why take the blame when you actually bothered to obey the road rules.. While this is something to be rightfully excited about as it is the official sign of us becoming adults (just writing that word sends shivers down my spine) and taking on responsibility, the process to get your license is somewhat tiresome.. The questions provided on the sample test are not inclusive of all questions to be asked on the actual examination.. So, sit there and look pretty! Or end up creepily smiling like Sheldon! Go through a driving school In my personal experience going through a school is much better than attempting to do it privately.. Not only is it short staffed most of the time but they aren't particularly accommodating excluding the handful of kind and encouraging people who give you quick smiles, making you feel even more nervous and insecure so that by the time you finally face your exam you are an annoyed and nervous wreck..
